DEATH RATE IN RICHMOND CITY VERY LOW SAYS DR. C. R. BLAKE

Richmond is not only one of the healthiest cities in the state but in the United States as well.

This information was given to the council at its meeting last evening by Health Commissioner C. R. Blake.

In a communication, he stated that Richmond and Santa Cruz, for towns of this size, had the lowest death rate of any cities in California.

For children under one year of age, the death rate is lower in this city, than any other city in the United States.

RICHMOND CLUB HAS AS TOPIC THANKSGIVING

"Thanksgiving" proved the main topic of discussion in the program following the regular meeting of the Richmond Club in the club house yesterday. The subject was discussed both from the standpoint of the original day and from the day as it is observed now.

Mrs. Brownie Maxwell who took as her subject, "The Institution of Thanksgiving" was followed by Mrs. N. A. Casertling, whose topic was the "Modern Observance of Thanksgiving."

Miss N. Snow addressed the club on "book week" and stated that the Richmond library's children's section is much better equipped than the San Francisco library.

Mrs. H. F. Deshields presided.

Much Enthusiasm Over Y Gym Class

A fine group of boys turned out for the regular "gym" class at the local Y. M. C. A. last night and much enthusiasm was shown by the boys as they went through their exercises and gymnastic stunts.

J. W. Deeming, instructor in charge of the class is well pleased with the progress the boys are making and is planning some interesting gymnastic work for the winter months to keep the boys busy.

Classes are conducted on Mondays and Thursdays while Tuesdays are held open for special group work.

Any boy over 12 years of age can enter these classes. As this is one of the ways in which the Y.M.C.A. contributes to the physical well-being of the community, no fees are charged.

Sons of St. George Win Soccer Game

At the San Pablo grounds Sunday the "Vitruvian" team of San Francisco played the Sons of St. George, and the latter won by a score of 1 to 0. Holt scored the only goal of the match. The Sons of St. George played a clean and sportsmanlike game and the Italian team did well for their first year in soccer football.

WEEK-END VISITORS

Miss Genevieve McConnell, mother and sister, Mary of Sacramento were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Siddham at the Point.

POSTMASTER IS PREPARING FOR XMAS RUSH

Preparations for the Christmas rush of mail were made yesterday by Postmaster James N. Long upon receipt of warning from the United States Postmaster General in Washington, D. C.

Postmaster Long began a survey preliminary to the assignment of substitute carriers and other extra employees who will be needed during the Christmas rush. The mail rush is expected to start a month from today.

Use of pre-cancelled stamps was recommended for shippers and handlers of Christmas mail of second, third and fourth classes. This system would expedite the handling in the post-office department.

The postmaster urges the early dispatching of mail gifts so that the work of distributing Christmas packages will not be left entirely to the last week. The department is seeking to have the distribution more widely scattered through the holiday season.

Attention of persons sending mail across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans is called by the postmaster to the fact that November 15 is considered as the start of "overseas holiday mail." All international packages should be dispatched prior to that date in order to insure Christmas delivery.

A plea is made for the abandonment of the undersized Christmas cards and envelopes. These do not fit the cancelling machines built for regulation cards and envelopes, and hand canceling is then necessary.

Undersized cards may also become "lost in the shuffle" and delayed indefinitely.

The full co-operation of the mailing public is sought by the post office department this year, and if it is received a minimum of delay is promised in the handling of mail and the local distribution.

W. C. T. U. MEETING TODAY

The regular monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Miss Nannie Nesbitt at 631 Bissell avenue.

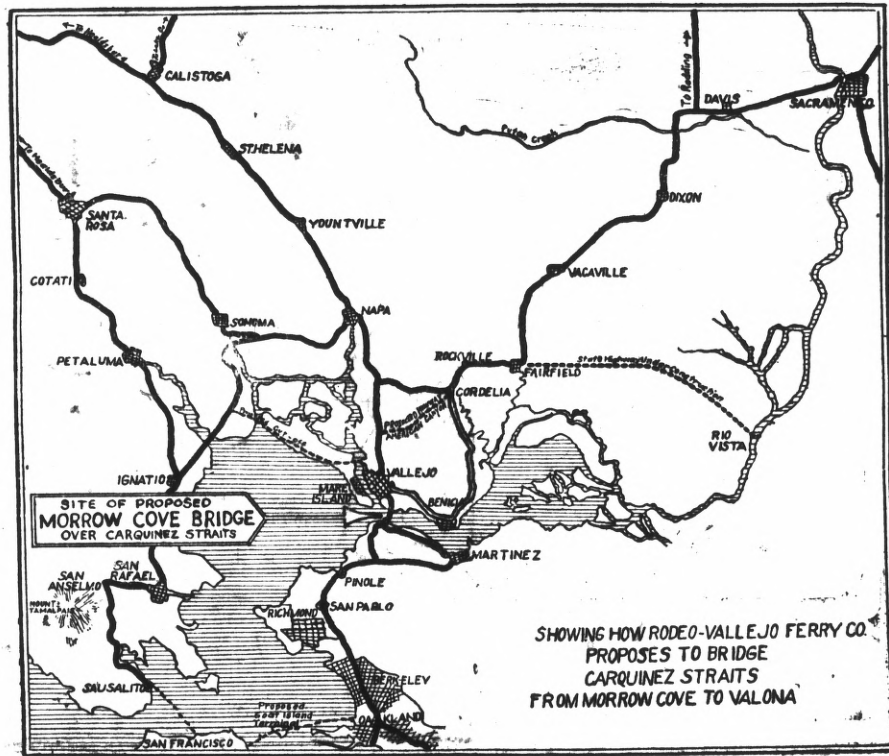

FOUR PRIZES TO BE AWARDED BY SCHRADER'S

Who is going to be the lucky ones to win the handsome prizes that the L. H. Schrader Furniture Company, of 701 Macdonald avenue are giving away on the evening of December 22nd at 8 o'clock.

It doesn't seem hard to win one of these prizes as there will be four all told, and one has a chance to win the grand prize on December 28th by having the most votes. Every one that spends a dollar in either of L. H. Schrader's stores at 701 Macdonald, or at Point Richmond will receive a ticket that entitles him to one hundred votes on the lucky number prizes.

Even those that pay money on old accounts will receive a ticket for every dollar they pay at either store. The prizes are well worth trying for, as they represent hundreds of dollars, if one were to purchase them. They are on display at the main store, 701 Macdonald avenue, where they can be seen at any time during business hours. The first is a genuine leather rocker (lucky ticket); the second a handsome stand lamp with beautiful silk shade; the third a very attractive

Bridge to Cost $4,000,000

The offices of the District Attorney and the County Engineer are busily checking data submitted by the various applicants for a franchise to erect a bridge across Carquinez Straits.

Because a great suspension bridge from Valona to Morrow Cove will bring the center of population several miles nearer to communities north of Carquinez than a bridge at any other point, the supervisors of Contra Costa County and the War Department are being urged to accept the proposal of the Rodeo-Vallejo Ferry Company and issue a permit for this gigantic enterprise.

It is hoped by the supervisors that a final decision can be reached at the hearing December 11, when final opportunity will be given all contestants.

The Rodeo-Vallejo Ferry Company, which proposes to erect the bridge at a point near Valona in Contra Costa County, offered to put up a bond in any amount deemed reasonable by the supervisors for the diligent prosecution of the project if the franchise is granted them, and to accept the judgment of the Board as to the term of the franchise and its consequent reversion to the people. The offer has been well received here, and present indications are that the Rodeo-Vallejo Company and the Dillon Point Development Company will be the contenders for the final decision of the supervisors.

Engineers representing all three companies are working on the straits gathering additional data to strengthen their positions before the supervisors when they appear December 11. The bridge, when completed, will cost approximately $4,000,000 and will equal the Williamsburg Bridge over New York's East River in the length and height of its main span.

ROYAL ARCH TO CONFER DEGREE AND FEAST

Wednesday evening at Masonic hall the Royal Arch degree will be conferred at a meeting of Richmond chapter, No. 113, R. A. M.

Deputy grand lecturer Robert Braden will be present and address those present.

There will be a 6:15 dinner and all Royal Arch Masons are invited to be present.

The committee of ladies in charge of the dinner is made up of Mesdames H. G. Stidham, chairman; C. D. Hornier, C. R. Alexander, A. L. Hall, H. O. Watson and C. C. Olney.

FOLLETT'S FATHER DIES AT AGE OF EIGHTY-EIGHT

G. A. Follett, 501 Bissell avenue, has received news of the death of his father, T. M. Follett, who passed away suddenly at the Veteran's Home, Napa county. Deceased, who was 88 years old, is well known in Richmond, having made his home here until recently.

table lamp; and the grand prize is a Wedgewood combination gas and coal range that would retail for close to $200.

The scheme as a whole is rather unique coming as it does just prior to the Yuletide. Then, too, each one has several chances to win any one of the prizes.

Winning the competition the third consecutive time the military drill team of the local lodge of Moose carried off the Frazier loving cup and the $75 cash prize at the frolic held in South San Francisco Saturday and Sunday. The drum corps which entered the competition for that trophy was defeated by three-fourths of a point. The Frazier cup belongs to the Richmond lodge permanently as a result of Saturday's win.

Frederick Zetzarnetzky, only candidate for initiation from Richmond, took part in the services when over one hundred were initiated into the Legion, second degree of Moose.

A large local delegation attended the festivities.

Richmond was named as the possible choice of the next frolic by the committee of arrangements. The frolics are held every three months.

Brotherhood Will Give Dinner Monday

At the second meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew held last evening at St. Edmund's Church, plans for a dinner to be held next Monday were perfected. A lengthy discussion of the year's program took place but the final decision was left till the next meeting, which will be in two weeks.

USE OF HOLLOW TILE ALLOWED THIS CITY

Richmond will keep pace with other cities in improved building methods and in the future not only business blocks but residences can be erected of hollow tile.

At the meeting of the council last evening the building ordinance was amended to allow the use of the new material.

Mayor Garrard stated that he did not think the city government should stand in the way of building operations, and it was his opinion that hollow tile provided a good structure.

Meeting Today of The Lincoln P. T. A.

Miss North McNeill, city librarian, will discuss Children's Book Week, when the Lincoln P. T. A. will hold its regular meeting at the school at 2:30 o'clock today. Mrs. A. Ospina, secretary of the Richmond Red Cross, will tell of the Red Cross work.

Following the business session, members will sew on articles for the local Red Cross.

VISITING FRIENDS HERE

Mrs. Ruth Silva of San Francisco and Miss Ann Koeney of San Pablo visited relatives here yesterday.

PIGEON SHOW TO ATTRACT MANY EXHIBITORS

From November 23rd to and including November 26th, there will be held what promises to be the largest Pigeon Show ever "cooped" in the West. Some show it must be to beat the Panama Pacific Exposition Show held in 1915 and the National Show held in Oakland January, 1921. Some show it will be, states every member of the Pacific Pigeon's Fanciers' Club, who have been planning this Show of Shows for the past twelve months.

Idora Park has been selected to house the 1500 to 2000 priceless feathered specimens of the pigeon fanciers' skill, and many of the Richmond fanciers will have exhibits there.

Practically every variety, color and size of pigeon will be represented, from the Giant Runt to the dainty Pouter. The stylish Jacobin, the Jaunty Fantail, Racing, Exhibition and Show Homers, all will be represented by large entries, not to mention the "Big Five" utility breeds, Hungarians, Maltese, White Kings, Carneau and Registered Swiss Mondains. Present also, but in lesser number, will be found the varieties that are popular because of their beautiful markings, such as Turbats, Nuns, Satinets and so on down the list.

Many beautiful cups, cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded the winners in every class. Heading the list are the Twenty-five Dollar Guest Cup for the best display of Pigeons outside of Bay Counties; the Fifty Dollar Challenge Cup for the best display of pigeons by a member of the Pacific Pigeons Fanciers' Club; the Fifty Dollar Silver cup for the best pair of White Kings shown.

Fanciers who have never exhibited pigeons prior to October 1, 1922, may try for the beginner's premium, and may also compete for all other prizes.

The best judges obtainable will do the adjudicating, namely: William J. Head, E. G. Waltz, William G. Sohn, Tom March and William I. DeLong.

WHIST KIDDIES PARTY PLANNED BY POINT O. E. S.

On the evening of November 23rd, Point chapter, of the Eastern Star will give a turkey whist at the Point Masonic Hall, and the ladies are making big preparations for the event. There will be a $3 turkey order for every four tables. Score cards will be but fifty cents.

The chapter had intended to have initiation on the 16th but this has been postponed and in its place will be a party for the children. Masons and their friends and families are invited to the party.

RICHMOND GIRL HONOR GUEST IN SAN FRANCISCO

Miss Mary Park of Richmond was the honor guest at a surprise party when Genevieve Garvis of San Francisco entertained at her home Saturday evening. An elaborate dinner was served following which the guests enjoyed an evening of music and dancing.

TELEPHONES INCREASING

Since the first of the year there have been 192 new telephones installed in Richmond.

HER MAJESTY QUEEN MINNIE IS CROWNED AT ELKS BIG SHOW

Attended by the court jester, a bevy blocking all passageways, knights, Miss Minnie Kneeland, was last night crowned queen of the Elks' Charity Circus and Industrial Exposition.

Thousands thronged the big tent making last night the record in attendance. It was totally impossible to make a complete round of the exhibits early in the evening, crowds blocking all passageways.

With the booths and tent gayly decorated for the event, and the crowds on tiptoe waiting for the ceremonies, Miss Kneeland escorted by her court half circled the tent and mounted her platform amid an explosion of cheering and clapping. The din increased to a roar of congratulations and cheer when the crown was placed on her head and "Queen Minnie" stepped forth to receive the homage of her people. Exalted Ruler Frank N. Gordon was the master of ceremonies.

Jack Fitzpatrick, winner of the baby contest, and therefore ruler of the children's universe, shared in the honors of the evening.

Queen Minnie, Jack Fitzpatrick and the honorary winners of the contest were presented with their prizes as a feature of the coronation.

Following the coronation, the scheduled entertainers of the exposition honored her majesty with an exhibit of their talent. Dandling completed the evening.

The two automobiles, the Essex coach and an Overland touring car, which are to be given away tonight at 10 o'clock, are attracting great attention.

The exposition closes tonight in a blaze of fun, entertainment and joy. Be on hand to take a part in the closing exercises.

Seniors Will Stage 4 Big Stunts Friday

Four big stunts and musical numbers will compose the program as arranged for Friday when the members of the graduating class of Richmond High school stage their Senior Stunt night at the Lincoln Auditorium Friday evening.

An original play written and directed by a senior, whose name will be divulged at the conclusion of the program, will be the feature of the evening. A one-act play entitled "Joint Owners in Spain" will be staged by the girls of the Dramatic Club, while a group of senior boys will present a musical stunt. Music will be furnished between numbers by the high school orchestra and members of the senior class.

Funds from the affair will be used to publish the class issue of the "Hil-Nus," student publication.

Originator of Weeks System Will Address Poultry Raisers Here

At a meeting of the Richmond Poultry Producers Association held last evening at the Pythias hall, it was announced that on November 27th, Charles Weeks, of Palo Alto, the originator of the Weeks poultry and culture system, would address the organization.

At the same meeting the first nomination of officers will take place. At the meeting last night a feed order of five and a half tons was placed.

THE TURK NEEDS WHIPPING

Some day or other Europe will have to combine and thrash the Turk. There are about half a dozen countries over there that can do this job alone, but a combination would be better because the thrashing would be more complete, and in the end result in the expulsion of Turks from Europe.

Since Kemal defeated the Greek army he has been going about with a chip on his shoulder. Great Britain at first seemed disposed to take up his challenge, but thought better of it later on. Since then Kemal has been laying down the law to all Europe.

For one thing he will not give any guarantees of safety to business men or religious folk of other nations, this including missionaries.

France is much concerned about the safety of investments in Turkey and the heads of the Roman Catholic church in France are worried over the safety of their followers in the land of the Sultan. Both business men and archbishops have appealed to the French prime minister, but that individual seems to side with Turkey and refuses to take any steps for the protection of his compatriots. Great Britain is expected to adopt the views of this country, which desires a guarantee of protection for all foreigners.

NO PORK WANTED

The "pork barrel" is being packed in Washington, D. C., according to newspapers, in order that "representatives of the people" may deal out good fat chunks to their constituents in order to buy votes at public expense. In plain language, a $100,000,000 public buildings bill is being groomed for passage.

Few sections of this country need new or enlarged federal buildings. A program of economy in national affairs should empty a lot of space in many of our federal buildings and there is no pressing demand for $100,000,000 being spent for new ones.

President Harding has called upon every government department to submit estimates of expense for next fiscal year lower than those of the current year, and it is stated that he will veto any "pork barrel" measures passed for spending public funds not absolutely necessary and essential for maintaining the functions of government.

The way to reduce taxes is to cut down expenses and put business instead of politics into government. Public officials who try to bring about business administrations must be encouraged and backed up in their attempts.

THE LONG SKIRT

Cheering news comes from the purchasing department of a large eastern department store. It is to the effect that French designers have been defied, and that American women insist upon skirts the southern frontier of which shall be at least nine inches from the ground. Orders for next spring are being given along these lines. American women, the French designers will learn, are an independent set. They have tried the overhanging long skirts out and condemned them. They are unbecomely, as well as cumbersome. The wearer is in danger of falling over herself. And another feature of which we do not lose sight is that they emphasize the sex of the wearer, which the short skirt does not.

The short skirt, moreover, is hygienic, sanitary and attractive. It seems incredible that it could be displaced permanently by the gowns that are now in many cases marking the landscape at our fashion centers. An it is natural for our women folk to rebel against an attempt to place them in irritating harness. After all, they have to wear the clothes.

ADOLESCENT ELOPEMENTS

School girls and boys of the Middle West are eloping and entering into what they are pleased to term "trial marriages." We can not register great surprise. School girls and boys, particularly school girls of so-called flapper status have been given so much newspaper space, have been spotlighted to such an extent in the last year or two, that they are more or less excusable for dreaming dreams about having their own way and living their own lives.

Home discipline has been far too lax, perhaps. Certainly school discipline has been too tolerant. It is an age of liberal tendencies we live in, despite prohibition and an attempted censorship on the part of a minority, but liberal tendencies should now not even consider the advisability of self-determination in the nursery or class room.

The girls who are thus experimenting may feel defiant today, but they have a future before them not particularly attractive to contemplate.

PROGRESSIVE MANAGEMENT

Edward N. Hurley, ex-chairman of the Shipping Board, on a recent trip to Portland, Oregon, said, "From an electric standpoint the Pacific coast is the greatest market in the world today with its water power which means cheap service energy, making it possible to use power at low cost for home labor saving devices of all kinds."

Mr. Hurley was astonished on learning that the largest proportional sales made in its territory during October by the Pacific Power and Light Company's force were through meter readers, linemen and others in the construction end of the organization.

He said, "Never heard of the like. Here is a country with every advantage from a power standpoint and even the men stringing the wires are so enthusiastic they sell the company's staple wares."

Mr. Hurley may not know that many employees and customers of our great western public service companies are stock holders and part owners of the companies they serve or patronize. When a lineman, meter reader or other employee is selling goods for his "own" company and shares in the profits, naturally he is an enthusiastic salesman.

Western public utilities have been leaders in developing the customer, employee ownership idea. Practically every one of these companies places all the stock it can with its home people on partial or easy payment plans in order that the widest distribution of its securities in the district it serves may be had.

This is real public ownership for the public; the consumer and the employees are interested alike in reasonable rates which will encourage the greatest community development for the benefit of not only the company, but the territory it serves and every person living in it.

MALADY CALLED FATIGUE

Doctors are always trying to make business for themselves. The discovery of a new disease by an Illinois physician will be warmly approved by the profession. This brand new malady is called "fatigue." Meaning weary, of course. Dr. E. H. Oschner of Chicago, addressing a meeting of colleagues in Peoria, said that tired business men suffer from an "accumulation of fatigue material or toxin."

Toxin, as readers probably know, means poison. Only hard working men suffer from this just discovered disease; and there is no remedy. At least, Dr. Oschner did not announce one, and he said that rest will not cure fatigue, but only serves to check its accumulation. We must suffer, it seems, and do the best we can. An argument against prohibition may be manufactured out of the malady fatigue.

MODERN GREEK BEAUTIES

A very solemn scientific illustrated lecture by a long faced professor before a class in Grecian art at the University of Mississippi was broken up as a result of a freshman slipping in some "slides of movie bathing beauties."

NEW USE FOR RADIO

Fred Mueller, of Fort Worth, has solved an old age problem—how to attend religious services and go fishing at the same time on Sunday. He has equipped his fishing launch with a complete radio set and listens to a Sunday sermon as he fishes.

Hussolini, the fascist prime minister of Italy, has ordered all cabinet officers to wear frock coats and top hats. He can't blame his colleagues if they conclude that the State ought to supply motor cars to suit this official apparel.

After the word war comes the world war.

Candidates Desired to Be Freeholders

Workers were named to interview various representative citizens in an effort to get at least fifteen freeholders to run for election at a meeting of the league held in the Pillow building Sunday. The Charter League will not endorse any candidates until the ticket is in the field.

The committee of which F. J. Hulaniski is chairman issued the following statement at the close of the meeting:

"It is necessary that there be at least fifteen candidates, and that petitions carrying more than fifty names be filed for each candidate. There may be 20 or 30 candidates.

"The Richmond Freeholders Charter League, as such, has not endorsed the candidacy of anyone, and does not intend to do so until after the first fifteen nominations are made. An effort is being made to have the fifteen representatives of all elements in the city."

INFORMAL DINNER PARTY

BY MRS. AGNES McNEILL
Mrs. Agnes McNeill entertained a group of friends at a delightful informal dinner party at her home Saturday evening. The group attended the Elk's Circus later in the evening. The guest list included: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandelin, Stella and Lempie Sandelin of Berkeley; Mrs. Harold Transue and son Lawrence of Alameda; Mrs. Minnie Gerran and daughters, Lourde and Lillian of San Francisco; Emily and Claire Kenna and Mrs. McNeill of St. George.

Sulphur Is Best To Clear Up Ugly Skin

Irritation and Breaking Out Often Healed Over Night, Says Skin Specialist

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Menthosulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly relieves itching and irritation.

Menthosulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Menthosulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.—Adv.

Past Noble Grands Whist Party This P.M.

Announcement that the Past Noble Grands whist scheduled to take place in W. O. W. Hall this afternoon will be held in Richmond Hall instead was made yesterday by the committee in charge.

The games, starting at 2:15, are given for the purpose of raising funds to help cheer the inmates of the old folks' home. Mrs. J. C. Asher and Mrs. H. Thell are in charge.

LITTLE HOWARD FRENCH IS HOST TO FRIENDS

Howard French, Jr., assisted by his mother, Mrs. Howard French, was the host at a delightful party Friday afternoon at which time in celebration of his "Armistice Day" birthday he entertained a group of his young friends. Red, white and blue were used in a most patriotic color scheme.

Games and refreshments were enjoyed by the following friends of the four-year-old host: Leslie Mitchell, Fred and Hamilton Thompson, Stanley Holmes, Stillman Clark, Joyce and Nancy Kimball, Billy and Marjorie Ellis, Walter and Leonard Anderson, Earl Hale, Ruth McNally, Howard and Elizabeth French and Edward Stokel.

Healing Cream Stops Catarrh

Clogged Air Passages Open at Once—Nostrils Cleared

If your nostrils are clogged and your head stuffed because of catarrh or a cold, get Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head and membranes. Instant relief.

How good it feels. Your head is clear. Your nostrils are open. You breathe freely. No more hawking or snuffling. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up and miserable. Relief is sure.—Ad.

How to Cook Dinner

is one cooking appliance to which electricity lends itself with adaptation. This is the electric cooker. Of course, electricity is not fire; but what we all want is the non-conducting cooking heat whose temperature and contents is raised to the desired degree by an electrical current. Then when the heat has been turned off, the cooking temperature, the contents of the receptacle will all through to the proper temperature. The current is now shut off, and the cooking operation, as it begins. The heat is slightly, continues to act on the contents of the insulated receptacle, and the cooking operation may be continued for as great a period as desired.

All the articles to be served are prepared some two hours ahead of time; the current is turned on for fifteen or twenty minutes, while the food is being prepared, and this brings the temperature of the oven up to the desired degree; the material is placed in the oven, and of course this reduces the temperature. The current is maintained for fifteen to twenty minutes more. As soon, however, as a slight evolution of steam is perceived, in the shape of a small wreath around the lid of the container, the current is turned off, and then everything can be forgotten for nearly an hour. Forty minutes is given as the minimum period of cooking after the current has been turned off fifteen minutes to the pound is supposed to be a good allowance for a roast. The heat, of course, falls all the time, so there is but little danger of over-cooking. It is said that after two hours in the oven, the food will come out in good condition. A peculiar thing about vegetables is that almost all of them, even potatoes and sweet corn, which certainly seem dry, can be cooked without adding water. The natural juices of the vegetables supply all the moisture required. So you do not boil your potatoes, spinach or corn, but simply cook the members of the vegetable

Electricity and Its Use

In the farmhouse today, no matter in what part of the country it is situated, we are very likely to find quite or nearly all of the conveniences which the city dweller enjoys. These include the usual kitchen and living room appointments, such as electric clothes washer, lights, fans, food chopper, sad irons, table cooking utensils, toaster, etc. In the more pretentious electric farmhouse, we often find an automatic electric water-pump and storage tank system, using compressed air to force the water up through the various rooms with one or more bathrooms, as well as an electric refrigerator in the kitchen, a small motor working periodically and automatically as required, a pump connected with an ethyl-chloride circulating and condensing system for the refrigeration in question.

The farmer of yesterday stands amazed, perhaps, when he pays his first visit to the modern scientific farm where electricity works hand in hand with man. It is not so unusual nowadays for large cow barns, especially those on dairy farms, to be equipped with electric fans to keep the flies from bothering the cows, and also to circulate air and thus reduce odors, and make the air more refreshing for the animals. Electric milking machines are used on most of the large dairy farms where they multiply the work accomplished by one man several fold. Not only is it a case of accomplishing the work of four or five men with one milking machine and one man, but the milk is handled in a perfectly sanitary manner, and not left standing around the cow barn for flies and dirt to contaminate it. In the barn we frequently find the corn sheller and fodder-cutter driven by electric motor as well as a feed grinder. A cider press may be rigged up with a little ingenuity also, and some barns are equipped with an electric hay loader, which lifts large quantities of hay from the wagon or motor truck up into the hay loft with ease and swings it through the door.

DESERT GOLD

He grasped the prows of the fork and held them before him with the end standing straight out, and then he began to walk along the stream bed. Cameron, at first amused, then amazed, then pitying, and at last curious, kept pace with the prospector. He saw a strong tension of his comrade's wrists, as if he was holding hard against a considerable force. The end of the peach branch began to quiver and turn, kept turning, and at length pointed to the ground.

"Dig here," said the prospector. "What!" ejaculated Cameron. Had the man lost his mind?

Then Cameron stood by while his comrade dug in the sand. Three feet he dug—four, five, and the sand grew dark, then moist. At six feet water began to seep through.

"Get the little basket in my pack," he said. Cameron complied, and saw his comrade drop the basket into the deep hole, where it kept the sides from caving in, and allowed the water to seep through. While Cameron watched, the basket filled. Of all the strange incidents of his desert career this was the strangest. Curiously he picked up the peach branch and held it as he had seen it held. The thing, however, was dead, in his hands.

"I see you haven't got it," remarked his comrade. "Few men have. Back in Illinois an old German used to do that to locate wells. I can't explain. The old German I spoke of made money traveling round with his peach fork."

"What a gift for a man in the desert!" Cameron's comrade smiled—the second time in all those days.

They entered a region where mineral abounded, and their march became slower. Generally they took the course of a wash, one on each side, and let the burros travel leisurely along sipping at the bleached blades of scant grass, or at sage or cactus, while they searched in the canyons and under the ledges for signs of gold.

Each succeeding day, and night Cameron felt himself more and more drawn to this strange man. He found that after hours of burning toil he had possibly grown nearer to his comrade. He reflected that after a few weeks in the desert he had always become a different man. In civilization, in the rough mining camps, he had been a prey to unrest and gloom. But once down on the great blowing sweep of this lonely world without bitterness, so now he did not marvel at a slow stir stealing warmer along his veins, and at the premonition that perhaps he and this man, alone on the desert, driven there by life's mysterious and remorseless motive, were to see each other through God's eyes.

One night they were encamped at the head of a canon. The day had been exceedingly hot, and long after sundown the radiations of heat from the rocks persisted. Cameron watched his comrade, and yielded to interest he had not heretofore voiced.

"Pardner, what drives you into the desert? Do you come to forget?" "Yes."

"Ah!" softly exclaimed Cameron. Always he seemed to have known that. He said no more, but grew acutely conscious of the pang in his own breast, of the fire in his heart, the strife and torment of his passion-driven soul. He had come into this desert to remember a woman. She appeared to him then as she had looked when first she entered his life—a golden-haired girl, blue-eyed, white-skinned, red-lipped, tall and slender and beautiful. He had never forgotten, and an old, sickening remorse knocked at his heart. He rose and climbed out of the canon and to the top of the mesa, where he paced to and fro and looked down into the weird and mystic shadows, like the darkness of his passion, and farther on down the moon track and the glittering stretches that vanished in the cold blue horizon. In that endless, silent hall of desert there was a spirit; and Cameron felt hovering near him what he imagined to be phantoms of pain.

He returned to camp and sought his comrade. "I reckon we're two of a kind," he said. "It was a woman who drove me into the desert. But I come to remember. The desert's the only place I can do that."

"Was she your wife?" asked the elder man. "No."

A long silence ensued. The campfire wore down to a ruddy ashen heap. "I had a daughter," said Cameron's comrade. "She lost her mother at birth. And I—I didn't know how to bring up a girl. She was pretty and gay. It was the—the old story."

His words were peculiarly significant to Cameron. They distressed him. He had been wrapped up in his remorse. If ever in the past he had thought of anyone connected with the girl he had wronged, he had long forgotten. But the consequences of such wrong were far-reaching. They struck at the roots of a home. "Well, tell me more?" asked Cameron earnestly.

"It was the old, old story. My girl was pretty and free. The young bucks ran after her. I guess she did not run away from them. And I was away a good deal—working in another town. She was in love with a wild fellow. I knew nothing of it till too late. He was engaged to marry her. But he didn't come back. And when the disgrace became plain to all, my girl left home. She went west. After a while I heard from her. She was well—working—living for her baby. A long time passed. I had no ties. I drifted west. Her lover had also gone west. In those days everybody went west. I trailed him, intending to kill him. But I lost his trail. Neither could I find any trace of her. She moved on, driven, no doubt, by the bound of her past. Since that I have taken to the wilds, hunting gold on the desert."

"Yes, it's the old, old story, only sadder, I think," said Cameron; and his voice was strained and unnatural. "Pardner, what Illinois town was it you haled from?"

"Peoria." "And your—your name?" went on Cameron, huskily.

"Warren—Jonas Warren." That name might as well have been a bullet. Cameron stood erect, motionless, as men sometimes stand momentarily when shot straight through the heart. In an instant, when thoughts resurged like blinding flashes of lightning through his mind, he was a swaying, quivering, terror-stricken man. He mumbled something hoarsely and backed into the shadow. But he need not have feared discovery, however surely his agitation might have betrayed him. Warren sat brooding over the campfire, oblivious of his comrade, absorbed in the past.

Cameron swiftly walked away in the gloom, with the blood thrumming thick in his ears, whispering over and over: "Merciful God! Nell was his daughter!"

III As thought and feeling multiplied, Cameron was overwhelmed. Beyond belief, indeed, was it that out of the millions of men in the world two who had never seen each other could have been driven into the desert by memory of the same woman. It brought the past so close. It showed Cameron how inevitably all his spiritual life was governed by what had happened long ago. That which made life significant to him was a wandering in silent places where no eye could see him with his secret. Some fatal chance had thrown him with the father of the girl he had wrecked. It was incomprehensible; it was terrible. It was the one thing of all possible happenings in the world of chance that both father and lover would have found unendurable.

Something within him cried out to him to reveal his identity. Warren would kill him; but it was not fear of death that put Cameron on the rack. He had faced death too often to be afraid. It was the thought of adding torture to this long-suffering man. All at once Cameron swore that he would not augment Warren's trouble, or let him stain his hands with blood. He would tell the truth of Nell's sad story and his own, and make what amends he could.

Then Cameron's thought shifted from father to daughter. She was somewhere beyond the dim horizon line. In those past lonely hours by the campfire his fancy had tortured him with pictures of Nell. But his remorseful and cruel fancy had lied to him. Nell had struggled upward out of menacing depths. She had reconstructed a broken life. And now she was fighting for the name and happiness of her child, Little Nell! Cameron experienced a shuddering ripple in all his being—the physical rack of an emotion born of a new and strange consciousness. He felt that it had been given him to help Warren with his burden.

He returned to camp trying to evolve a plan. All night he lay awake thinking.

In the morning, when Warren brought the burros to camp and began preparations for the usual packing, Cameron broke silence.

"Pardner, your story last night made me think. I want to tell you something about myself. In my younger days—it seems long now, yet it's not so many years—I was wild. I wronged the sweetest and loveliest girl I ever knew. I went away not dreaming that any disgrace might come to her. Along about that time I fell into terrible moods—I changed—I learned I really loved her. Then came a letter I should have gotten months before. It told of her trouble—informed me to hurry to save her. Half frantic with shame and fear, I got a marriage certificate and rushed back to her town.

To Be Continued.

Thrilling Film at the Macdonald Today

A great detective is killed. His name is Grady. The only clue is a silver watch. The initials on this silver watch are D. H.

The body showed traces of being browned off a cinder, yet that may have been an accident.

The baffling mystery of this murderous deed is solved by a certain young author who sacrifices his love for his sweetheart, so that he may bring this criminal to justice. Come and see the inner workings of a counterfeit clique, the methods which they circulate fictitious money, and go through incidents that the average person would ignore.

"The Man Hunter" is playing at the Macdonald theater today. This picture is different and so appealing that it will stir every bit of emotion in your body. The "kiddies" will enjoy it too because they are made of the same fighting spirit as their "pa and ma."

Will Form New Bowling League

The merchants of Richmond are forming a bowling league that will start activities on the evening of November 21st, 1922.

There will be all told eight teams in the league which as yet is incomplete. The star players are as follows:

Paige, Auto Supply Company; Wilson, Kearney & Furrer; Gregg, Smalley Tailors; Bloomquist, Smith & Crane; Pauly, Nesbit, Patterson, Burns, Van Shike, Pemberton.

Bowling fans will be interested in this league.

Gray Hair Becomes Dark and Beautiful

Look years younger! Try Grandma's recipe of Sage and Sulphur and nobody will know.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

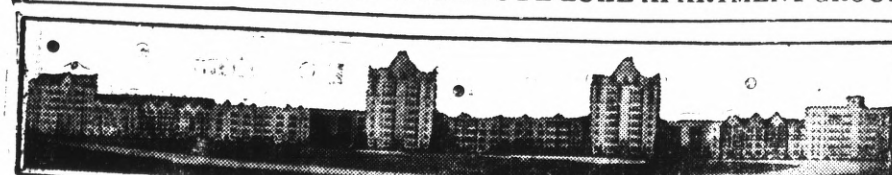

GRIS! LEMONS. WHITEN SKIN AND BLEACH FRECKLES

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.

5,000 PERSONS TO LIVE IN WORLD'S DE LUXE APARTMENT GROUP

NORTH SHAKER UNIT, 1350 FT. LONG

A TWO-STORY LIVING ROOM AND ONE OF 50 ENTRANCES AT MORELAND COURTS

Cleveland is holding the eyes of the building and architectural world on what is declared to be the greatest apartment house development ever attempted.

Construction is in progress on a project which calls for an expenditure of thirty million dollars. Two of six monster units have been started in Shaker Heights, an exclusive suburb nineteen minutes from Cleveland's Public Square. The development lies on the city's only rapid transit line, which will be even more enhanced with the completion of the new $50,000,000 union depot in the Square. When this is finished the rapid transit cars will move mostly underground.

This development, of the Moreland Courts Company, will be a complete city in itself. It is America's first "Garden City" de luxe. The apartments will house a community of 5,000 persons and include theaters, stores, of all varieties and restaurants.

The architecture is of the Georgian and Elizabethan type. While a high standard is maintained throughout, there will be a long range in size and rentals of the homes, prices ranging all the way from $60 a month for small suites to $800 for a dozen rooms with three or four baths.

Colonel Alfred W. Harris, of Cleveland, the architect, spent two years completing the plans and utilized ideas gleaned from travels over Europe and America.

Glass of Salts if Your Kidneys Hurt

Eat less meat if you feel backache or have bladder trouble—Salts fine for Kidneys.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush out the bowels, eat a glass of salts before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

'IS DEMOCRACY FINAL ANSWER?' TEXT OF SERMON

Sunday night at the Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church one of the largest congregations greeted Dr. Baker since his taking up the pastorate of this church. The orchestra rendered several numbers. There was a number by the choir and also by the male quartet. Mrs. Ross Calfee followed the discourse with "The Stars and Stripes Forever." Dr. Baker took his text from Psalm 2:4 and announced his topic as "Is Democracy the Final Answer?"

"History reveals the law that national character determines national destiny," was Dr. Baker's opening sentence. The Bible reveals the profound political philosophy that nations which do not adjust their relations with the Divine government are doomed. Both the Old and the New Testaments reveal Christ as Lord of lords and King of kings, highly exalted with all authority committed to Him, and before whom every knee should bow and tongue confess.

"Some would-be politicians make light of this and deny that Divine or mortal sanctions have applications to political matters. Some hold that the state can do no wrong. The German kaiser gave us a recent illustration of this non-moral theory of government. The war was God's final answer and supreme argument that He rules and demands recognition. The evidence and testimony of international law on national rights and consequent obligations is abundant and forceful. History proves that states have acted in the capacity of real moral beings. Christ acted upon the principle that political sovereignty belongs to the people viewed as a state, and he holds them responsible for exercise of national power. The fulfillment of prophecy and the history of decayed nations and crumbled civilizations should warn modern nations of this unerring law of God.

"Intelligence is not the fountain of perpetual youth. Let Greece with all its learning and culture and art answer. Let Germany with its intellectual pride tell its story. All was sacrificed and prostituted to rapine and lust and murder and destruction. Material progress is no safeguard. What killed the great republic of Rome? The decline of the national spirit for the lack of the unifying force of pure religion. According to Gibbon's story of Rome's ruin was simple and obvious. Grown so rank with sin it had to be destroyed for a more righteous form of government and civilization. There is a most vital connection between nations and governments and religion. Christianity is constructive of the state and bears in itself the power of forming the state and of developing it to its full completeness. The most intelligent leaders acknowledge in a general way the need of religion in our political creed.

"Our success as a nation is not all due to Yankee ingenuity. The religious element was incorporated into the organic life of our nation from Columbus, who discovered us, to the present time. The Pilgrims founded

Cantor Rosenblatt Signs New Contract for Record Amount

Josef Rosenblatt, cantor of Temple Ohab Tedek, in New York City, has signed a contract calling for $45,000 for nine appearances before the principal Jewish congregation in Philadelphia during the next three years. He will sing three days a year, the two days of Yom Kippur and the day of Rosh-ha-Shana. Rosenblatt came from Hamburg, Germany, eleven years ago at a small salary, and later became cantor at an annual salary of $6,000.

a Christian civilization. Our republic was born in the heart of the Mayflower. Faith in God guided the Constitutional Congress which gave us our charter of inalienable rights.

"Where do we stand as a nation today? Gigantic evils still stride across our land. The lawless liquor traffic would subvert the whole government to carry out its foul ends. Sabbath desecration and defiance of God are on every hand. The family and home life which is the hope and strength of our nation, is threatened. When the life-stream is poisoned at its source no power on earth can stop national decadence. The government's latest special report on marriage and divorce represented divorce as a dark cloud gradually gathering over our country. Then there is money madness, seen at its worst in the profiteers of foodstuffs, who would drive the country to revolution and perdition for larger dividends. Capital and employer and organized labor are in the trenches and nothing but the spirit of Christ on the part of both can ever hope to get them out. Race riots, promise nothing good.

"The root sin of it all is selfishness. The mind of Christ alone can cure that base complaint. The world war brought no Utopian dream. The fight is still on between nations and peoples. We can't escape the logic of Christianity. Each must regulate his own life and political actions by these principles and get others about him to do the same. In no other way can the world be made safe for democracy. Burke said: 'True religion is the foundation of society. When that is once shaken by contempt the whole fabric cannot be stable nor lasting.' 'Democracy itself,' said Henry Waterson, 'is a side issue. If the world is to be saved it will be saved by Christianity, by Jesus Christ and Him crucified.'

"If our own country and all lands are not to get something better than we now have out of that awful slaughter of our honored sons in the world war then they died in vain. Great commerce, boundless resources, unlimited wealth, brilliant achievements are nothing without conscience. All these may accompany a nation to its ruin. National security is in law and law is useless without public conscience. When the public mind is vitiated and depraved, its deathknell is struck. As Webster said, 'Laws be-

WEEKS PROGRAM FATHERS-SONS IS FIXED

In an effort to bring fathers and sons closer together Richmond churches and the Y. M. C. A. have arranged an extensive program in order to observe properly Father and Son week which is being nationally celebrated. Committees are hard at work perfecting plans for the various interesting gatherings scheduled locally.

The Community M. E. South and Grace Lutheran churches will unite and hold a joint banquet on Friday evening. The First Presbyterian and the Stege Presbyterian church will unite for their banquet.

Following is the program of the week:

Tuesday—Home Day. Fathers are planning to spend the evening at home in some especially significant way. This evening will give the father an opportunity to invite the confidences of his son.

Wednesday—Mid-week service. Special emphasis is to be given to boy life and the relationship of Christianity to the boy.

Thursday—Fathers' night. Fathers will arrange to discuss and think about boy problems.

Friday—Annual Banquet night. The "get-together" event.

Saturday—Recreation day. Fathers should make special effort to spend the afternoon with sons, hiking, hunting, or in group recreation.

Sunday—Father and Son Sunday. Special services at the various churches in honor of the fathers and sons.

come a nullity and constitution but waste paper."

"Upon another Armistice Day we are called upon to set ourselves against all attempts to poison the currents of religious thought flowing through our national life from its very beginning. Unite to strengthen all our Christian agencies, such as the church, the home, the school, and to revere the Sabbath and the Bible. The one vital organic thought, the one great unswerving purpose of the one undying enthusiasm of real red-blooded Americans should be to make Christ king in our courts, our camps, our commerce; king in our cloisters and our colleges, in our Congress and Constitution. In other words, make Christ King our conscience."

Standard Service

With our experience and equipment we have a notion that we could work out a pretty fair sort of battery service without much help.

But we also have an idea that it wouldn't measure up to the brand of service developed for our use by the Willard Storage Battery Company.

As Battery Headquarters we have the benefit of their years of experience, and of the definite national standards of service they have been able to develop as a result.

Come in! No matter what make of battery you happen to have it needs the sort of attention provided by the Willard Standard of Service.

Christmas Money

Just about this time of year people begin to think about Christmas money.

We do not mean to say "I told you so," but a Christmas account started early in the year would have provided the necessary funds.

Open an interest bearing account now and be sure about next Christmas.
